

INNER PIPELINE PHILOSOPHY FOR CHILDREN WINTER 2016

EDUC 401M/PHIL 498 Philosophy for Children

Tuesdays

In this seminar, run by the Center for Philosophy for Children, students explore methods for introducing philosophy to K-12 students. The seminar focuses on ways to establish classroom "communities of philosophical inquiry," and students develop an understanding of how to inspire philosophical discussions with K-12 students. The emphasis is on learning by doing, and we will discuss such questions as: Why should I be moral? What is art? Do animals have rights?

As part of the seminar, students facilitate philosophy sessions in local public schools. UCars are available for transportation to and from schools.

Students are encouraged (but not required) to consider planning to take the spring Inner Pipeline Philosophy for Children seminar as well, which will involve new material and provide students with deeper training about ways to teach precollege philosophy.

Facilitator: Jana Mohr Lone

OBJECTIVES

This seminar seeks to help students:

- Develop a general understanding of ways to facilitate philosophy sessions in K-12 classrooms
- Gain experience in the K-12 world by tutoring in a Seattle public school classroom
- Develop tutoring skills and experience leading philosophy discussions

EXPECTATIONS

THIS IS A CREDIT/NO CREDIT SEMINAR. FOR CREDIT, ALL OF THE FOLLOWING EXPECTATIONS MUST BE MET:

- √ Attend all seminars and contribute to the group discussion. As we only meet for 9 sessions, it is really important that you attend all of them! For an excused absence, let me know ahead of time that you will need to miss the seminar.
- √ The seminar is intended to be a time for dialogue and the development of a community, so please refrain from checking your phones during our sessions.
- √ Do all of the readings, which can be found on the following electronic reserve site:
<https://canvas.uw.edu/courses/1024278/files>
- √ Students will be responsible for facilitating at least part of one of our seminar sessions. Assignments for this will be made during the first couple of sessions.
- √ Complete contracted tutoring hours:

2 credits: 20 hrs in the classroom per quarter, including travel (one hour per session)
3 credits: 40 hrs in the classroom per quarter, including travel (one hour per session)
4 credits: 60 hrs in the classroom per quarter, including travel (one hour per session)
5 credits: 80 hrs in the classroom per quarter, including travel (one hour per session)

- ✓ Create a lesson plan for a philosophy session, teach it in your classroom (with or without a partner), present your lesson plan to the seminar during last class session on March 8 and submit it in electronic form by Friday, March 11.
- ✓ Students enrolled in EDUC 401 should keep an online tutoring log, to be submitted to the Pipeline Project along with a completed electronic post-seminar survey (including Reflection paper – see below) by Friday March 11, at 5:00 p.m.

LESSON PLAN

You will create at least one lesson plan for a philosophy session in your classroom, and teach it to your class at some point during the quarter. You will also develop a seminar presentation which describes the lesson and discusses why you chose it, your planning process, how the actual lesson went over, and what feedback you received from your teacher.

Please be prepared to present to the seminar on March 8, and then please send your lesson plan in electronic form, by Friday, March 11, to mohrlone@uw.edu.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS

COURSES, GRADING, ACADEMIC CONDUCT

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined as the use of creations, ideas or words of publicly available work without formally acknowledging the author or source through appropriate use of quotation marks, references, and the like. Plagiarizing is presenting someone else's work as one's own original work or thought. This constitutes plagiarism whether it is intentional or unintentional. The University of Washington takes plagiarism very seriously. Plagiarism may lead to disciplinary action by the University against the student who submitted the work. Any student who is uncertain whether his or her use of the work of others constitutes plagiarism should consult the course instructor for guidance before formally submitting the course work involved. (Sources: UW Graduate School Style Manual; UW Bothell Catalog; UW Student Conduct Code)

Incompletes

An incomplete is given only when the student has been in attendance and has done satisfactory work until within two weeks of the end of the quarter and has furnished proof satisfactory to the instructor that the work cannot be completed because of illness or other circumstances beyond the student's control. (Source: UW General Catalog Online, "Student Guide/Grading")

Grade Appeal Procedure

A student who believes he or she has been improperly graded must first discuss the matter with the instructor. If the student is not satisfied with the instructor's explanation, the student may submit a written appeal to the chair of the Department of Philosophy with a copy of the appeal also sent to the instructor. The chair consults with the instructor to ensure that the evaluation of the student's performance has not been arbitrary or capricious. Should the chair believe the instructor's conduct to be arbitrary or capricious and the instructor declines to revise the grade, the chair, with the approval of the voting members of his or her faculty, shall appoint an appropriate member, or members, of the faculty of the Department of Philosophy to evaluate the performance of the student and assign a grade. The Dean and Provost should be informed of this action. Once a student submits a written appeal, this document and all subsequent actions on this appeal are recorded in written form for deposit in a School file. Concerns About a Course, an Instructor, or a Teaching Assistant

If you have any concerns about a Philosophy course or your instructor, please see the instructor about these concerns as soon as possible. If you are not comfortable talking with the instructor or not satisfied with the response that you receive, you may contact the chair of the program offering the course (names available from the Department of Philosophy, 361 Savery Hall).

If you have any concerns about a teaching assistant, please see the teaching assistant about these concerns as soon as possible. If you are not comfortable talking with the teaching assistant or not satisfied with the response that you receive, you may contact the instructor in charge of the course. If you are still not satisfied with the response that you receive, you may contact the chair of the program offering the course (names available from the Department of Philosophy, 361 Savery Hall), or the Graduate School at G-1 Communications Building (543-5900).

For your reference, these procedures are posted on a Philosophy bulletin board outside the Department of Philosophy main office on the 3rd floor of Savery Hall.

POLICIES, RULES, RESOURCES

Equal Opportunity

The University of Washington reaffirms its policy of equal opportunity regardless of race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, age, marital status, disability, or status as a disabled veteran or Vietnam-era veteran in accordance with University of Washington policy and applicable federal and state statutes and regulations.

Disability Accommodation

The University of Washington is committed to providing access, equal opportunity and reasonable accommodation in its services, programs, activities, education and employment for individuals with disabilities. For information or to request disability accommodation contact: Disabled Students Services (Seattle campus) at (206) 543-8924/V, (206) 543-8925/TTY, (206) 616-8379/Fax, or e-mail at uwdss@u.washington.edu; Bothell Student Affairs at (425) 352-5000/V; (425) 352-5303/TTY, (425) 352-5335/Fax, or e-mail at uwbothel@u.washington.edu; Tacoma Student Services at (253) 552-4000/V, (253) 552-4413/TTY, (253) 552-4414/Fax.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is defined as the use of one's authority or power, either explicitly or implicitly, to coerce another into unwanted sexual relations or to punish another for his or her refusal, or as the creation by a member of the University community of an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working or educational environment through verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

If you believe that you are being harassed, seek help—the earlier the better. You may speak with your instructor, your teaching assistant, the undergraduate advisor (363 Savery Hall), graduate program assistant (366 Savery Hall), or the chair of the Philosophy Department (364 Savery Hall). In addition, you should be aware that the University has designated special people to help you. They are: University Ombudsman and Ombudsman for Sexual Harassment (for complaints involving faculty members and teaching assistants) Susan Neff, 301 Student Union (HUB), 543-6028; and the University Complaint Investigation and Resolution Office, 616-2028. Office of Scholarly Integrity

The Office of Scholarly Integrity is housed in the Office of the Vice-Provost. The Office of Scholarly Integrity assumes responsibility for investigating and resolving allegations of scientific and scholarly misconduct by faculty, students, and staff of the University of Washington. The Office of Scholarly Integrity coordinates, in consultation and cooperation with the Schools and Colleges, inquiries and investigations into allegations of scientific and scholarly misconduct. The Office of Scholarly Integrity is responsible for compliance with reporting requirements established by various Federal and other funding agencies in matters of scientific or scholarly misconduct. The Office of Scholarly Integrity maintains all records resulting from inquiries and investigations of such allegations. University rules (Handbook, Vol. II, Section 25-51, Executive Order #61) define scientific and scholarly misconduct to include the following forms of inappropriate activities: intentional misrepresentation of credentials; falsification of data; plagiarism; abuse of confidentiality; deliberate violation of regulations applicable to research. Students can report cases of scientific or scholarly misconduct either to the Office of Scholarly Integrity, to their faculty adviser, or the department chair. The student should report such problems to whomever he or she feels most comfortable.
