

Nurturing Curiosity

Exploring Big Questions

PLATO nurtures young people's curiosity, critical thinking, and desire to explore big questions through engaging philosophy and ethics programs for students, educators, and families.

A national leader in ethics and philosophy programs in schools, PLATO's innovative work reaches thousands nationally and internationally, fostering analytical reasoning skills, self-confidence, and the appreciation of diverse perspectives.

PLATO's programs include:

- High school classes tackling ethical issues such as our responsibilities to future generations and other living beings.
- Elementary school classes discussing such topics as friendship, justice, and the nature of time.
- Online seminars for educators integrating philosophy across subjects, including math, science, and art.
- Family programs designed to spark deeper, meaningful conversations at home.

Seventh Biennial PLATO Conference Philosophy and Civic Education June 27-28, 2025, Tufts University

Many educators, recognizing the highly polarized nature of contemporary society, seek resources to help them lead discussions on potentially controversial topics. To help address this need, the conference will focus on the intersection of philosophical dialogue and civic participation. It will include a panel discussion, "The Intersection of Ethics and Civic Education: Embracing Difficult Conversations," featuring panelists who are among the leading scholars in the country on civics education.

Why Sponsor?

Sponsoring PLATO's Biennial Conference offers a unique opportunity to align with a respected educational nonprofit dedicated to fostering young people's critical thinking and ethical. Sponsoring this event will connect you with a diverse and influential audience of educators and community leaders, while gaining significant visibility for your commitment to advancing ethical discourse and civic responsibility.
